

1. The University Appeals Board and Conduct are completely against us. When we come back we have to be wary.
  - a. We will come back, but we won't be at competitive regattas for a year. So those of us who are currently 2nd years will not sail in MAISA again.
2. Possible alternatives...
  - a. No Sailing
    - i. Nope nope nope nope nope nope nope
  - b. Individual Sailing
    - i. Could work, expensive as balls though...
    - ii. RCC
    - iii. RYC
    - iv. SBJSA
    - v. SBYC
    - vi. Newport Yacht Club
  - c. Independent Group Sailing
    - i. Choose a facility from the list above...
    - ii. Gain contacts in the area (big boat stuff)
    - iii. Restrictions
      1. Cannot recruit openly on campus. Word of mouth is encouraged and allowed though.
      2. No official events on campus. Cannot throw parties, cannot meet up as a club, and cannot practice here. However, as long as it's on the down low we're fine.
        - a. ANY mention of the sailing club can come and bite us in the ass in the long term. Club's can still be punished while suspended.
      3. Cannot even mention that we are a group from RIT. Word gets back and the above happens. Possible solution by having external members (U of R, Genesee, Nazareth, Eastman, High School, Alums, ...etc...)
      4. Cannot participate in MAISA regattas, but invitationals are game.
    - iv. Coaching... Viable?
    - v. Structure and Dues
      1. How much would dues be?
      2. Act like a club, walk like a club, but not a club.
        - a. Comply with Club center regulations and documentation standards even if we aren't actually associated with RIT.
        - b. Eases transition back to RIT
      3. Elections?
    - vi. Schedules next year. Practices. Morning vs Night classes. Rotating shifts. Who's on Co-op when? Workouts? Social activities? Scheduling is a bitch
      1. Coordinate practices with U of R, UBuffalo, Syracuse, Colgate, Cornell ???

2. U of R regattas as crew?
    - vii. Advanced planning is absolutely required now.
    - viii. Is the effort worth it?
  - d. Summer sailing. Who is where and doing what? Coordinate that.
3. US Virgin Islands trip during winter break next year?!
  - a. CJ Hobbs and boats and sunshine
4. Spread the word. Punctuality, responsibility, and transparency on the part of the people running this outfit are now required (and hopefully required of the team members too).
